

TO FORMALLY OPEN NEW CHURCH

Bishop Randolph Will Preach
First Sermon at Good Shepherd, Forest Hill.

COMPLETED WITHIN YEAR

Handsone Structure Built by Episcopalians, With Aid of the Ladies' Guild.

The Church of the Good Shepherd, at Forest Hill, will be formally opened at 11 o'clock this morning by the Right Rev. A. M. Randolph, Bishop of the Diocese of Southern Virginia. This church, which has just been completed by the residents of that community, is one of the two Episcopal churches within a radius of many miles on the south side of James River, the other being Meade Memorial Church, in Manchester.

The Rev. Ben. Dennis, of Meade Memorial, and the Rev. Mills Colgate Daughtrey, pastor of the new church, will assist in the opening rites. The sermon will be preached by Bishop Randolph.

Following the regular services, the bishop will confirm a class of about twelve or fifteen, who for several weeks have been receiving special instruction with this solemn rite in view. The choir, which in large measure is composed of former members of the church of Holy Trinity Church and Monumental, will sing special music for the occasion. It has been rehearsed a number of times by Director Ben. Potter, of the Monumental choir.

Music and Choir.

The complete musical program follows: Processional, Hymn 491, "The Church's One Foundation," Wesley; "Venite in Exultation," Tallis; "Te Deum," Sullivan; "Agnus Dei," F. Aldrich; Hymn 143, "St. Andrew," Jude; "Gloria Tibi," Gounod; Hymn 412, "The King of Love My Shepherd Is," Dykes; offertory, "Holy Art Thou," Handel; Hymn 218, "O Happy Day That Gave My Christ," Hinton; recessional, Sullivan; postlude, Marchante.

The choir is as follows: Soprano—Miss Ellen Smith, Mrs. William Hall, Miss Margarette Quarles, Mrs. Walter A. Watson, Mrs. George Goddin, Miss Mary Patterson, Miss Charlotte Branner, Master George Patterson, Alto—Miss Aggie Hurt (director), Miss de Graffenried Robertson, Miss Helen Robertson, Tenors—Mr. Albin Netherwood, Mr. Richard H. Smith, Basses—Mr. Frederick Banks, Mr. Aggie Hurt, Organist—Mrs. Frederick Banks.

Organized and Built.
The congregation of the Church of the Good Shepherd was organized at a meeting held at Forest Hill February 12, 1908, at which Bishop Randolph was present. With the view of building as soon as practicable, the congregation appointed a committee of trustees, empowered to purchase real property in the name of the congregation, and instructed it to procure a suitable location.

This was the beginning. The church is now finished, and from now on will be completed regularly. Much credit for this rapid movement is due the Ladies' Guild of the church, which has been indefatigable in its efforts, having not only furnished the church and arranged for the installation of a large pipe or-sixty-four feet long, forty feet wide, with a pitch of twenty-seven feet. Five granite steps lead to the vestibule, over which is the steeple of square English-Gothic design, fifty feet high. This architectural style is, of course, carried out through the entire church. The interior, walled and with heavy beamed ceiling, is of antique oak, the simple decorations being the Gothic trefoll.

The pews arranged on each side of a broad main aisle and along two side aisles, afford a seating capacity for about 200. On the left of the chancel is a temporary organ, which will be retained until the regular pipe organ is installed. Also on this side of the chancel is a robing room for the choir, connected with a similar room on the other side by a long hall running across the rear of the church.

This church is already very fortunate in that it has received a number of handsome memorials from sister churches in Richmond and from friends, which will add considerably to its beauty and usefulness and its work.

The plans and specifications for the building were drawn by Architect William C. West, of this city. The contract for the construction was awarded to Mr. H. L. Williams.

CORNER-STONE IS PUT IN POSITION

Its Laying at Manassas Is Made
Occasion of Elaborate Ceremonies.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
MANASSAS, VA., November 14.—Owing to the extremely inclement weather to-day the exercises attending the laying of the corner-stone of the Manassas Agricultural School building were held indoors, and the courthouse was used. The ceremonies were conducted by Manassas Lodge, Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons, assisted by Worshipful Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Virginia Joseph W. Eggleston, of Richmond, Va. A telegram was received from State Superintendent of Schools Eggleston stating that he could not be present, owing to an engagement at Chase City, Va. Charles D. Maphis, examiner for the Fifth Virginia School District, was present and presided over the exercises.

Addresses Made.
Addresses were made by Mr. Maphis, W. M. Hayes, of the United States Department of Agriculture, and George W. Kolner, Commissioner of Agriculture of Virginia. All of the speakers emphasized the fact that twentieth century education demands not only a knowledge of books, but also thorough instruction and training in the agricultural pursuits. Mr. Hayes predicted that the Manassas Agricultural School would in the course of a few years be one of the largest of its kind in the country.

He thinks the Davis bill, providing for the establishment of schools of this kind in each congressional district, will pass Congress in the near future, and that Manassas will get the appropriation for the Eighth Virginia District.

Dwelling upon the importance of scientific farming, Mr. Kolner said: "The time has come when the educated farmer will excel in agricultural pursuits as surely as the well educated and well trained man excels in other branches of work."

Secretary Hayes is an ardent advocate of consolidated public rural schools and thinks they ought to be consolidated where at all practicable.

Mr. George C. Round, one of the trustees of the Manassas public school, and Dr. H. M. Clarkson, division superintendent of schools, took part in the ceremonies.

Substantial Building.
The building to be erected here will be of pressed brick and native brown stone. It will be two stories high, with a basement under the entire building, and is to be equipped with the most modern school equipments. Professor Button, director of the school, is a native of New York State and a graduate of Cornell University.

After the exercises attending the laying of the corner-stone a luncheon was served in the Carnegie library room by the domestic science class. Much credit for the securing of this school for Manassas is due to Mr. George C. Round. He has devoted much time and labor to school work, and by his untiring efforts and efficient services has made the Manassas public and high school second to none in the State.

News Gathered from Southside

Manchester Bureau, Times-Dispatch.

No. 1102 Hull Street.

Some excitement was caused in the city last night by what appeared to be a large fire in Chesterfield county, about one mile below the corporate limits, near the river. The flames gained great headway, and the sky was illumined with much brilliance for several minutes. Citizens started out in the rain in the direction of the blaze, but the fire died down as quickly as it had started, and the men returned through the darkness.

It was later ascertained that two camp cars standing on a siding on the Seaboard Air Line tracks, near the river, had caught fire and were destroyed. The cars had been condemned, and were occupied by a foreman and a section gang employed on the tracks. Owing to the cold weather and rain.

Two Charged With Arson.

Charles Swan appeared before Judge W. A. Watson at the Chesterfield Circuit Court yesterday morning on the charge of attempted arson, and was given six months in jail.

The accused, who pled guilty, was arrested May 21st. He was charged with firing his own home in Chesterfield county after demolishing and destroying the contents.

Swan had been indicted before a grand jury for an attempt to burn his home, in which attempt he had failed. He threw himself on the mercy of the court, which handed down a compromise verdict of six months.

Foster Scott, a negro, was lodged in the Manchester Jail yesterday, charged with burning down a sawmill belonging to Mr. Ben Martin, in Chesterfield county. The negro will be tried before Judge Cheatham sometime this week. He claims that he is not the incendiary.

Surprise Party.

A delightful surprise party was given Miss Cornelia Walker at her new home on Porter Street, Friday night.

Among those present were Messrs. Tucker Jones, Overton Dennis, Thos. Nichols, Hillary Duval, Clarence Smith, Holland French and John Moore, and the Misses Hazel Beattie, Ethel Smith, Eleanor, Lyle and Kate Gary, Lucy Martin, Mary Perdue, Isabelle Saunders, Cornelia Walker, Alice and Eliza Ingram.
